

Culture Engagement

Today's "Quit Rate" - the rate at which employees up and leave their jobs - is at an all-time high. The most common reason for this is company culture. People quit people. They quit teams. They quit bosses, and they quit organizations where toxicity is high.

People Acuity believes that culture is not grown through employee engagement rhetoric, surveys or gimmicks. Most employees care about employee don't engagement, but they do care about their own Work Joy. Who doesn't want to experience joyful fulfillment, meaning, purpose, and belonging at work?

People Acuity's approach to organization culture is to inspire Work Joy at all levels of the organization. Inspiring Work Joy means creating a workplace that values meaningful work, purposeful contribution, interpersonal agility, coach-like communication, and proactive accountability. Inspired Work Joy is no longer a "nice to-have" - it has become an urgent "must-have" - particularly given the current climate of employee mobility and workforce opt-outs.

“ Our Inspiring Work Joy learning journey was transformative, eye-opening, and mind-blowing, and it provided critical life lessons and self-insights. The active engagement of our entire region increased by 21% within 18 months, and our active disengagement decreased by 35%. This experience changed our outcomes, energy, and performance. ”
